

_shift

What brings you to the private view?

SHARE

TWEET

PIN

Two hours in and we've seen the alcohol go down, the catwalk show commence and the venue reach over capacity. We're still busy at the pop up fashion desk reporting the latest news from the LCFBA15 showcase. Here in the media and communications area we've asked a handful of people what brought them to the private view...

Concrete Poetry Deputy Editor- Charlotte Muscat

"We're here looking for new design talent to feature on our new website. I've really liked this exhibition so far. The set up and aesthetic is amazing, it's so clean, spacious and aesthetically pleasing."

Arts Thread Digital Editor- Josh Walker

“The London College of Fashion has always put on a good show during graduate season. It’s great to see so many disciplines under one roof.”

Parent of media student- Alison Robinson

“I am really excited to see this year’s graduate showcase. It is amazing to see all the hard work come together into a finished product.”

Don’t forget to tweet us your highlights using the hashtag #LCFBA15